

AMB West Community Fund 2020 Funding Priorities

Known by guests for their caring and attentive service, the associates of AMB West strive for that same reputation in the local community. Throughout the year, our associates give back to the communities in which they live and work—through their physical involvement, personal philanthropy, and grants made to nonprofit organizations by the AMB West Community Fund. AMB West Associates review grant proposals, attend site visits, and provide recommendations for investments made by the AMB West Community Fund. Associates incorporate the Blank Family of Businesses Core Values in all aspects of their community giving:

- Give back to others
- Include everyone
- Innovate continuously
- Lead by example
- Listen and respond
- Put people first

The mission of the AMB West Community Fund is to enhance the quality of life for the residents of Montana, particularly in Park and Gallatin Counties. Established in 2001, the Fund has awarded more than $6 million in grants. After assessing the landscape of existing programs and areas of need through data and conversations with community stakeholders, the Fund has identified four priority areas for 2020: early childhood development, youth empowerment and development, community wellness, and youth suicide prevention. Application requirements, preferences, and priorities are outlined in the following sections and links.

Application Requirements

The AMB West Community Fund supports creative approaches and innovative programs that improve outcomes for children and families in Park and Gallatin Counties. The Fund will only consider proposals from organizations that build on community assets and demonstrate the ability to foster community cooperation and collaboration. Nonprofit organizations focused on advocacy or policy changes are eligible to apply and must demonstrate how their activities hold promise for large-scale systemic change.

All applications should describe 1) the problem being addressed and/or community opportunity, 2) proposed efforts, and 3) expected outcomes (for children, families, or communities). Applicants should articulate the logical connection between the problem identified, the proposed solution, and the anticipated outcomes. Additionally, proposals should describe how they will track and measure outcomes. For example, newer projects should track service goals and sustainability, whereas established programs should track progress toward outcomes.

The AMB West Community Fund will consider funding multi-year projects that are of exceptionally high quality, address a significant need, and implement sustainable solutions that connect resources across sectors.

Infrastructure projects are supported on a limited basis. Please contact us prior to submitting an infrastructure/capital proposal.

Preferences

Within the four priority areas listed above, AMB West will give preference to projects and organizations that:

- Provide or enhance services in rural areas where resources and services are limited
- Serve populations in high-risk situations in Park County
- Enhance successful existing programs that serve the community to help them build toward the future and amplify their impact
- Demonstrate that they are supported by the community and/or are supported by data and incorporate data in their decision-making processes
- Elevate parent and caregiver and/or mentor engagement

2020 Priorities

Early Childhood Development

The Fund will award grants to organizations providing children, birth to five, with quality opportunities that will prepare them for successful lifelong development. The Fund is especially interested in projects that promote healthy parent–child relationships and connection to community resources, as well as social and emotional skills among parents and children.

Youth Empowerment and Development

The Fund seeks creative nonprofit efforts to increase youth development opportunities and nurture young leaders. The Fund is especially interested in programs that empower youth and cultivate young stewards of land and wildlife through education, challenges of physical activity, wilderness experiences, and outdoor adventure. This includes programs that introduce youth and their families to the area’s natural resources. The Fund will also consider approaches that help youth identify passions and goals, and connect them to pathways and support to achieve their aspirations. Proposals that incorporate youth service-learning and/or social emotional skill building will receive preference.

Happiness and Health Through Wellness

Recognizing that lifestyle changes can yield dramatic positive results for the mind and body, the Fund launched a wellness grantmaking program in 2019. Nonprofit organizations serving community members of all ages are eligible to apply for funding to create or enhance existing services that support the development of wellness and foster resilience. The Fund will consider proposals that integrate wellness programs in a variety of settings, including but not limited to mental health services, juvenile justice services, schools, and family counseling. Examples of approaches of interest to the Fund include yoga, meditation, art and music therapy, outdoor recreation, and nutritional education. Proposals for programs that address acute care needs as well as long-term strategies to enhance physical and mental well-being will be considered. The Fund is especially interested in creative approaches that integrate wellness programming with outdoor immersion in local natural settings. The Fund will also consider proposals that support healthy social-emotional development for all age groups. Further, the Fund has an interest in self-care proposals that promote wellness among individuals such as counselors, social workers, teachers, nonprofit leaders, and others who serve our community members who face high-risk situations. (Note: Under this focus area, the Fund will not consider requests for medical or scholarly research on wellness.)

Youth Suicide Prevention

As part of its commitment to young people, the Fund has identified youth suicide prevention in Park County as a priority funding area for 2020. Montana's youth suicide rate is one of the highest in the country, and Park County's rate is especially high. The Fund seeks proposals that build on Park County's many strengths and that will contribute to a sustained, long-term reduction in youth suicide ideation and attempts.

Youth suicide prevention efforts can occur at many levels. For example, proposed projects may aim to improve mental health, strengthen relationships, or provide positive youth activities to promote youth vitality and diminish risk for suicide. Other projects may focus on early risk detection and intervention through improved coordination of services and follow-up, provide crisis management, or educate community members about appropriate responses to mental health crises.

Project types - The Fund is committed to addressing youth suicide using strengths-based approaches that build on the strong work already underway in Park County. The Fund expects to focus its 2020 Youth Suicide Prevention grant making on three project types: (1) Youth voice and engagement; (2) Parent support and outreach; and (3) Innovation. Proposals for the Youth Suicide Prevention priority area must specify the proposed project type.

a) Youth voice and engagement – The Fund is interested in supporting projects that will engage and enable youth to be advocates for youth well-being and suicide prevention in the community. These projects could take many forms, including creating a youth advisory panel for an existing youth serving organization(s), training youth in leadership and civic engagement around issues of mental health or suicide prevention, training youth on appropriate responses to mental health crises, or launching a public health campaign to reduce stigma associated with seeking help. Projects proposed under this project type should include local youth in all aspects of the work, including planning, execution, and evaluation.

b) Parent support and outreach – Parents and caregivers play a critical role in supporting the well-being of youth in Park County, from engaging in discussions about challenges their children face to facilitating access to resources available through organizations such as schools or mental health providers. However, not all parents are able to fulfill this role due to a variety of factors, including things like demanding work schedules, their own behavioral health challenges (e.g., substance use), mistrust of services, or need for additional skills and supports. The Fund is interested in supporting projects that engage parents/caregivers through, for example, outreach or training, enhanced mental health and substance abuse services, or school-parent partnerships. Projects proposed under this project type should include a plan for supporting parents/caregivers of youth in high risk situations (e.g., due to economic need, abuse) and for decreasing stigma associated with accessing services.

c) Innovation – In addition to the two project types outlined above, the Fund is open to proposals that take an innovative approach to the Youth Suicide Prevention priority area. These may include proposals that tackle issues such as strategic use of data, firearm safety, the unique needs of underserved groups (e.g., boys, LGBTQ youth), or other issues linked to youth well-being and suicide prevention. All projects proposed under this project type should include a well-articulated rationale for how it is related to youth suicide prevention.

In addition to a grant application, all applicants must submit a brief video. A link to submit the video is provided in the grant application.

Application Video Details

Submit a video that highlights information about the program/project for which you are requesting funding. The video should be no more than two minutes long. It can be produced with a smart phone and does not need to be professional grade. Videos will be viewed by the AMB West Community Fund Advisory Committee and used as a tool to determine community investments. Be sure the video summarizes your program/project and how the funds will be used. Without reading the application, a viewer should be able to understand the main points of your funding request.

Please answer the following questions in submitted videos:

- The problem being addressed and/or community opportunity
- Proposed effort to address problem
- Expected outcomes
- How the proposal coordinates resources or includes partnership with other organizations/resources (public and private)

Applications and videos must be submitted by 5:00pm Monday, February 3, 2020.

You will receive notification regarding the status of your application by March 1, 2020.
